PEDRO Fall 2026: Homecoming

GLOBAL, 10th July 2026: For Fall 2026, PEDRO looks to home. Not as a place to return to, but as source of inspiration, embracing its warmth and finding a design language entirely its own. Home is approached less as a destination than a way of seeing, shaping an edited wardrobe that carries that sense of ease outward.

Softness defines the season through ease of wear and a restrained palette. Tactile materials and domestic interiors inform the hues, allowing each piece to sit easily within its surroundings. Neutral tones and espresso browns form a foundational core, subtly accentuated with notes of primary colours to introduce a boldness that still feels remarkably soft and inviting.

The design language is considered and distilled, anchoring the collection in both literal and figurative comfort. The construction prioritizes an intuitive utility, creating an ease where discernment feels less like a limitation and more like a welcome release.

Tactility defines the season. Suede lends depth to the palette, its plush surface carrying a subtle sense of grit. Drawing from its material richness, it manifests across familiar silhouettes like the Demi and Asher tote bags and lends a soft structure to new constructions like the Hitch hobo bag.

Balanced alongside calf leather trims, the pieces evoke a sense of domesticity meeting the outside world. Autumnal interpretations of ballerinas and moc-toe derbies complete the footwear offering, balancing relaxed dressing with the pace of the city.

A Subtle Infusion of Craft

Craftsmanship is revealed through subtle gestures rather than overt decoration. Understated hardware, refined construction and thoughtful material combinations reflect an approach where precision is felt rather than announced, allowing the integrity of each design to emerge through careful making.

For Fall 2026, PEDRO finds home not in a destination, but in the pieces returned to time and again. Familiar not through repetition, but through the quiet confidence of a wardrobe that settles naturally into everyday life.

The Fall 2026 collection is now available in-store at PEDRO outlets and online at www.pedroshoes.com
